DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

2. Claims 1 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Perry (U S 6,823,075 B2) in view of Hayama (U S 6,731,407 B1).

Regarding claim 1, Perry discloses a watermarked image generator that embeds watermarks into an input image to generate a watermarked output image, comprising:

a watermark data source that inputs watermark data to a watermark embedding device (column 10, lines 22-32), the watermark embedding device halftoning the input image to generate the output image made of 2.times.2 binary patterns, the 2.times.2 binary patterns forming the watermarks embedded in the output image.

However, Perry is silent about the specific details regarding the input image to generate the output image made of 2.times.2 binary patterns, the 2.times.2 binary patterns forming the watermarks embedded in the output image.

In the same field of endeavor, however, Hayama discloses a system for carrying out pseudo-gradation processing on an image by a dither method comprising the input image to generate the output image made of 2.times.2 binary patterns, the 2.times.2 binary patterns forming the watermarks embedded in the output image (column 49, lines 3-15).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use output image made of 2.times.2 binary patterns as taught by Hayama in the system of Perry because Hayama provides Perry an improved system which permits the dithering to be carried out on the aforementioned whole image, while saving the capacity of the memory and shortening processing time of the system, as well as preventing formation of so-called blurs or broken lines.

Claim 9, is similarly analyzed as claim 1 above.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 2-8 and 10-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Other prior art Cited

Art Unit: 2625

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Curry (U S 6,081,345) discloses line screen having dynamic tone range for embedding machine readable data in halftone images.

Au et al (U S 6,690,811) disclose methods and apparatus for hiding data in halftone images.

Konishi et al (U S 6,771,391 B1) disclose image forming methods and device.

Knox (U S 5,734,752) disclose digital watermarking using stochastic screen patterns.
